

PSYC 363: Learning and Memory

Examines the theories of learning as they have developed historically. Topics include how theories affect current educational psychological theory, classic studies in animal learning, memory, and information processing.

Credits: 3

Prerequisites:

9 hrs. of psychology, including PSYC 112.

Program: Psychology