ACCT 315: Accounting Information Systems

Examines the development and use of management and computer information systems supporting the vision and operation of organizations including topics about knowledge management, system development and evaluation, emerging trends, organizational communication, and the ethical use of information systems.

Credits: 3
Program: Accounting