

NBUS 233: Nonprofit Financial Management

Provides an overview of fund and accounting concepts, budgeting, and an understanding of the unique financial management issues and decision that confront management in the nonprofit sector. Students learn how non-profit managers should integrate financial strategy and decisions within a broader framework of their mission. Students with any major may take this course if they intend to be involved in the management of a non-profit organization or activity.

Credits: 1

Prerequisites:

ACCT 232 for business majors or permission of the professor and completion of statistics and FIN 138 for non-business majors.

Program: Nonprofit Business and Social Enterprise