

EXER 400: Exercise Assessment and Prescription

Discusses the application of exercise physiological concepts to exercise prescription and programming including analysis of techniques used for health appraisal, risk stratification and fitness assessment, and evaluation of strategies used to promote physical activity.

Credits: 3

Program: Exercise Science