

BEHA 333: Helping Relationship Skills

Explores core communication skills essential to developing helping relationships. Topics include experiential role-playing and practice in nonverbal expression, active listening, exploration, constructive confrontation, conflict resolution, and other interviewing skills essential to a professional helper; development of these skills and the wisdom to know when to use them.

Credits: 3

Program: Undergraduate