

EXER 322: Introduction to Exercise Physiology

Provides a basic understanding of the physiological process that regulate human exercise tolerance. Topics include: bioenergetics, energy expenditure, functions of the cardiovascular, pulmonary neuromuscular and neuroendocrine systems, muscle, renal function, training, environmental influences, ergogenic aids, nutrition, and weight control.

Credits: 3

Program: Exercise Science